Low Gross of the Field	Cindy Erickson	82		$	23.00
Low Net of the Field	Stephanie Ticknor	71		$	23.00 *

This tournament was an ECCI 9, but not the kind people normally think of. Rather than just taking the lowest 9 scores less half your handicap, the computer calculates your net score to par on each hole to determine which holes you actually did best on, based on where your handicap strokes lie.   See an example for how this works below.

having a better net back nine, 34 to 35.

Thank you to Jackson Park for hosting our last tournamet.   Since the tournament was played under preferred lies, it helped with any issues with the course. Although it apparently didn't help with some of the pin placements which were considered "brutal" on some of the holes!

Congratulations to all the winners!

Club	Entries	Winners	Payouts

Example:

1) If you shot net 4's on all the holes, GG would count 4 par 5's and 5 par 4's, for a net score of 36
But, your "score to par" would be a -4, since you had net birdies on all par 5's
2) If you scored net 4's on all par 3's and on 5 par 4's and over net par on the rest, your net score would be 36
But, your "score to par" would be + 4 because you scored net bogeys on the 4 par 3's.
3) If you shot net par on all the holes, your score would include 4 par 3's and 5 par 4's for a net total of 32
But, your "score to par" would be 0, or Even. So even though your net 9 hole score is lower than Example 1 above, the player in Example 1 had a lower "score to par".
4) Golf Genius rewards for playing better than par on any hole

The ECCI 9 net scores shown on the report are for those with the best NET scores to par, not necessarily the lowest net scores.
